OLD IRELAND'S OWN SAINT

Observance of the Day Consecrated to His Memory.

SERVICES AT ST. PATRICK'S

Festive High Mass to be Celebrated by Archbishop Sattoli—President Richards, of Georgetown University, Will Preach the Panegyric—The Papal Ablegate to be Entertained at Dinner by Father Glynn.

If the man who makes a specialty of selling violets on the street corners could summon to his aid the conventional fairy's wand and change the little blue flowers into shamrocks, he would have gone home last night with a great big barrel full of money.

St. Patrick's Day happening to fall on Sunday this year, the ceremonies in connection with its celebration will be chiefly of a religious character. There will be no street parade with a band playing the air of "Wearing of the Green," and no congregation of the loyal sons of the Emerald Isle for convivial purposes.

SERVICES AT ST. PATRICK'S

St. Patrick's Church, of course, will be the place where the day will be most elaborately observed. Solemn Pontifical High Mass will be celebrated at 11 a. m. Most Reverend Archbishop Sattoli, celebrant, with Rev. Dr. Garrigan, vicar general, officiating as assistant priest, and Father Dumont as deacon, and Rev. Father Watterton as sub-deacon of the mass, and Mr. Sharrett and Rev. Dr. Rooker, respectively, deacon and sub-deacon of honor.

The panegyric will be delivered by Rev. Father J. Havens Richards, president of Georgetown University. Rev. Joseph H. Malone, of St. Patrick's, will act as first master of ceremonies, assisted by Rev. Dr. Stafford.

Immediately following the mass Father Glynn, pastor of the church, will entertain Mr. Sattoli at dinner, and will invite to meet him the priests of the various parishes of the city.

At 7 o'clock in the evening solemn vespers will be sung, and Rev. Dr. Stafford will continue his course of sermons on the "Destiny of the human soul." The musical programme is very elaborate. The choir, consisting of Miss Blanche Mattingly, soprano; Mrs. Laura Zoh, contralto; Bernard Ryan, basso, and Mr. McFarland, tenor, will be assisted by a large and well-drilled chorus.

At Carroll Institute an entertainment will be given to-night by the alumni of St. John's College. Rev. E. A. Pace, of the Catholic University, will deliver an address, and there will also be a musical programme.

NOTES OF CATHOLIC CHURCHES

A concert in aid of the poor of St. Aloysius' Parish, will be given to-night at Butler's Opera House, under the auspices of the Conference of St. Vincent de Paul and Ladies' Relief Society.

The annual three days' retreat to the young ladies of the Visitation convent will end to-day, when they will receive communion, the exercises to be conducted by Rev. C. M. Dolan, S. J., of St. Aloysius' Church.

St. Mary's Church has received $260 by the will of the late Mrs. Columbia Spatz, who died recently in this city.

Rev. Bishop Keane will lecture on the "Philosophical aspects of the end of the century," for the benefit of the Home of the Good Shepherd. On the 25th instant Rev. John J. Pendergast will lecture on the same interest and at the same place on the "Two views of immortality."

The novenas now in progress in the Catholic churches in honor of St. Joseph will close on Tuesday next.

Rev. Father Conway will preach this morning and evening at St. Aloysius' Church.

The sermon at the morning service at St. Joseph's Church will be preached by the Rev. Father Jones, of this city, who has recently returned from Europe.

The two hundred and one people under the care of the Little Sisters of the Poor will have their annual dinner on the 19th inst.

Rev. Dr. J. Stafford will lecture on Tuesday night next for the benefit of the Georgetown College Baseball Association at that institution.

MIND CHANGED, MONEY LOST

Unpleasant Experience of a Pretty Young Widow from Tennessee.

She Transfers Her Affections from One Man to Another While Traveling, and Is Robbed of $500.

St. Louis, Mo., March 16.—A well-dressed woman, who said she was Mrs. Emma Dwyer, of Chattanooga, Tenn., left a Chicago and Alton train at the relay depot to-day and reported to Detective Moore that she had been robbed of $500. She said she had left Chattanooga for Carlinville, Ill., where she was to meet and marry a man.

In the train she met a stranger, who came aboard at Evansville, Ind. She became infatuated with the stranger, who said he was John Lynch, of St. Louis, and claimed to be a lawyer.

After a necessarily short courtship en route, she agreed to marry him instead of Buel. Lynch conducted her to the Lambert House, where they reached St. Louis yesterday, and she remained there with him last night.

This morning she started to Carlinville to tell Buel about her change of mind, and Lynch bought her a ticket. While crossing the bridge she discovered that $500 in cash and checks had been taken from her reticule, which Lynch had carried for her.

Lynch was arrested at the Union Station and admitted practically all of Mrs. Dwyer's story, with the exception of the fact of the $500. This he strenuously denied. Lynch is an attorney of Evansville, Ind. Mrs. Dwyer says she owns two business blocks and other property in Chattanooga valued at $100,000.

TRAPPED ACROSS CONTINENT.

Two Men Four Days Ahead of Schedule Time.

Rochester, N. Y., March 16.—Ed. Finley and F. H. Ashton, who are walking from Omaha to New York City on a wager, arrived about noon to-day and registered at the Athletic Club Rooms, from which they resumed their tramp.

The distance to be covered is 1,350 miles, all of which must be walked, except fifty miles, which they are allowed to ride. They are now four days ahead of schedule time, having left Omaha nine weeks ago.

TOM WATSON NOMINATED.

All He Wants Is a Fair Show from the Democrats.

Thompson, Ga., March 16.—The Populist convention for the State district of paymaster put up a good show to-day. Thomas E. Watson to be the Populist candidate for Congress.

Mr. Watson then spoke for an hour. He called on the Democrats to give him a fair show, and declared that if he did not have a majority of the votes he did not desire to represent the district. His speech throughout was mild and conservative, and was loudly applauded.

HE PLAYED POKER.

Deflection, Fear of Arrest, and Suicide Were the Results.

Hartford, Conn., March 16.—Chase Robinson, secretary and treasurer of the Bailey Manufacturing Company of this city, committed suicide at his home to-day in Westfield by shooting himself through the heart. He was thirty-three years of age.

President Bailey, of the company, said yesterday that Robinson was a defaulter to the extent of several hundred dollars and threatened to have him arrested.

Robinson's downfall is attributed to poker playing.

They Will Call on Him

Mr. Oliver P. Durdette, so long and favorably known as the manager of the Washington branch of Keop Manufacturing Company, is now associated with Messrs. Robinson, Cherry & Co., the popular clothiers, furnishes and hatters of 12th and P streets, N. W., where he will be pleased to see all of his many friends and patrons, and to personally attend to any and all of their hardshears needs.

Another Dead Body Found.

Policeman Goucher, of the Third precinct, yesterday forenoon, found a dead colored infant on a lot on G street near Twenty-second, northwest. The coroner was notified.

GIRLS LOADED WITH CHAINS

So Fettered as to Be Held on the Floor Face Downward.

Increditable Cruelties Practiced Upon the Inmates of the Illinois Home for Juvenile Female Offenders.

Chicago, March 16.—"The things developed in the course of the investigation are of such an atrocious character as to lead me to doubt if any human being—much less little girls—ever should have been allowed to remain in this institution."

This was the comment Speaker Meyer, of the Illinois House of Representatives, to-day addressed to Trustee William Prentiss, of the Home for Juvenile Female Offenders, where the inmates have recently been in rebellion against the management.

"It is enough to make one's blood tingle in his veins. It would be enough to cause people in the bi-middle ages to blush."

After viewing the strong room, the chair, etc., Mr. Meyer said:

"I have seen punishment in the penitentiary, but I never before saw people chained to the floor."

The chairman and committee were convinced to-day, from the position of rings and staples in the chain, and in the stories of the girls that they had been chained by having a chain wrapped twice around in such a manner that the girl could not move about, but was held face downward on the floor.

One of the discoveries which most stirred the committee was the admission to the home of five girls without commitment and their removal without papers of discharge.

They were brought in by Mrs. Wallace from the Industrial Home, and remained there for four months. Members of the board objected and called for their removal, but, according to Mrs. Holt, their wishes were ignored.

It appeared that the girls were distributed around on their removal, some to Quincy, Ill., some to the Woman's Refuge, some to their homes, and some to the industrial schools.

MRS. McQUINN HAD NERVE.

She Didn't Wince When She Was Sentenced to Imprisonment for Life.

Louisville, Ky., March 16.—A special from Jackson, Ky., says: The jury in the case of Catherine McQuinn, charged with complicity in the murder of Dr. Hader, returned a verdict at 11:15 o'clock this morning and found her guilty of murder in the first degree, and fixed her punishment at confinement in the State prison for life.

When the verdict was read not a muscle of Mrs. McQuinn's face moved, and as she left the court room in charge of the jailer she smiled at some members of the jury walked along with her.

MONEY ALL SAFE.

No Truth in Reported Disappearance of West Virginia's Direct Tax Funds.

Charleston, W. Va., March 16.—The sensational report concerning the disappearance of $154,000 of direct tax due West Virginia, and which Gov. McCorkle brought from Washington this week, is without foundation. The money, according to a statement to-night by Col. J. M. Rowan, is in the Kansas National and Citizens National Banks, two State depositories in the city.

Col. A. D. McCorkle, brother of the Governor, also gave the same information. The governor is in Florida.

Fell from a Moving Cable Train.

A colored woman, who gave the name of Sarah Morris, and her address as Yale street, Mount Pleasant, attempted to alight from a moving cable train at the corner of Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest last night, and as a consequence was thrown forcibly upon the asphalt, striking on her head. She was sent to her home.

About to Plunge Into the Unknown.

Chicago, March 16.—"Nat" Jones, the once famous Chicago board of trade plunger, is lying at the point of death in St. Joseph's Hospital from the effects of a stroke of paralysis.

RETURN OF THE PRESIDENT

He is Well and Brought a Well-Stocked Game Bag.

TEN DAYS ON THE VIOLET

The President Killed Forty-five Brant, Two Geese and Two Ducks—He Brought Down Both Ducks at One Shot—He Developed Democratic Manners on Board—Warmly Greeted by His Family.

President Cleveland, after a ten-days' gunning trip down the Potomac and around to Currituck Sound, on the North Carolina coast, returned yesterday afternoon with game bag brimming full and a healthy color glowing in his cheeks. The light-house tender Violet, the trim yellow craft with low decks, well known to all, at once caught the eye of those along the docks as she hove in sight, and there was a general stir of interest.

The Violet rapidly steamed up the river and swung into place at the Potomac Steamboat Company's wharf. The White House carriage, with Private Secretary Thurber, had been waiting nearly an hour, and the diplomatic Michigan gentlemen was considerably chilled with the raw March wind.

He stepped briskly forward to the cabin and approached the President, who was in dark trousers, spring overcoat, with a dark brown cutaway showing a little as he buttoned up, and stylish derby hat. President Cleveland and Mr. Thurber shook hands.

THANKED THE CAPTAIN.

Then the President gave his hand to Capt. Donnell, of the Violet, as they came upon the forward deck and thanked him for the courtesies of the excursion. He showed no traces of the accident that happened to him just before leaving the city, but strode vigorously about the carriage and was soon within, accompanied by Dr. O'Reilly, who went down the day with him, and by Mr. Thurber.

They drove away followed by Commander Lambertson, superintendent of this light-house district, and Commander Wilde, secretary of the light-house board. These gentlemen had been on the boat as the President's companions, at the same time attending to their official duties.

The Violet left Washington the day after Congress adjourned and reached the cape channel (Henlopen) at 9:10 a. m. March 7. There she spent five days supplying the numerous light houses in that vicinity and inspecting buoys. While she was steaming about the channel and sound President Cleveland, sometimes with Dr. O'Reilly or one of the commanders, was out in a boat after water-fowl. He seldom went nearer land than a mile, and about from a "blin."

The crew of the Violet came back with their admiration for his marksmanship considerably heightened. This may have been partly due to the fact that every body had a share of the fine trout he brought in. His personal killing for the trip was forty-five brant, two geese, and two wild pate ducks. The two ducks were killed at one shot at forty yards.

LOS OF THE VIOLET.

With a favorable wind the Violet left the Cape channel at 5 p. m. March 12, and during the night dropped anchor at Body Island channel. Commanders Lambertson and Wilde went ashore next morning and inspected the island light. They then "worked over" the buoys in the vicinity.

Plans for shooting were not allowed to interfere with business, and at 11 a. m. the tender weighed anchor and steamed away to Long Point, where she stopped over night.

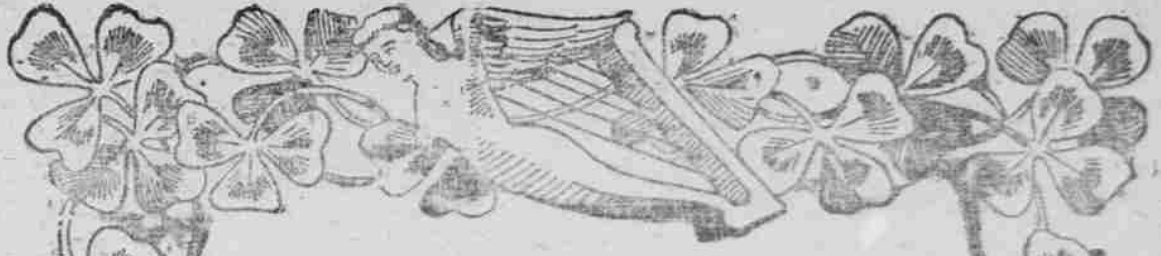

Next day the Currituck light was inspected and the boat proceeded up the coast, but was obliged to lay by over night at North Landing, Va., on account of darkness and bad weather.

At early morning next day, Friday last, she got under way and reached Portsmouth at 1 p. m. After taking coal she came on at 2:15, and ran up the bay. She was brought to anchor in the Potomac at midnight by a heavy fog, which did not lift to let her go on till morning, when she steamed up the river and into port.

The President is said to develop aboard ship democratic manners, quite different from the reserve of his demeanor on public occasions. He is in good spirits and has a bit of pleasantries for each man he meets, and can tell or enjoy a good joke at the board as well as the jolliest in the party.

HIS APPETITE GOOD.

He eats heartily and appears to have quite forgotten all business cares.

Great Snakes!

And small snakes were banished from Ireland—it is said—about the year 400—by St. Patrick. Some years afterwards—about the year 1880—we banished high prices on ready-to-wear clothing—right here in Washington. On this St. Patrick's day, 1895, we direct your attention to a new and complete stock of

SPRING CLOTHING

But, "Great Scott," shall we stop by simply saying that it is "new and complete?"—Perish the thought. In style, pattern and workmanship this stock gives merchant tailoring the closest "rub" it ever had—but the difference in price is as dimes are to dollars. All garments kept in repair one year free—money back if you don't like the suit.

M. DYRENFORTH & CO.,

621 Pa. Ave. N.W., Under Metropolitan Hotel.

What Do You Think About THIS?

About the first of April the Figure Eight Pattern, which now occupies the main half of our stock, will be wanted—and we shall find ourselves in a position to supply one of the largest and handsomest shoe stores in the United States. A store that is a solid block long—extending from Seventh to Eighth street—covering a distance of 215 feet. During these coming two weeks we shall offer many lines of our mammoth stock of shoes at a great discount. The stock of shoes which we purchased in New York at Appraisers' Valuation will be closed out at ONCE. Since in some of the grades are badly broken—every pair of these "odd lots" goes on the bargain table to-morrow morning.

If You Need SHOES

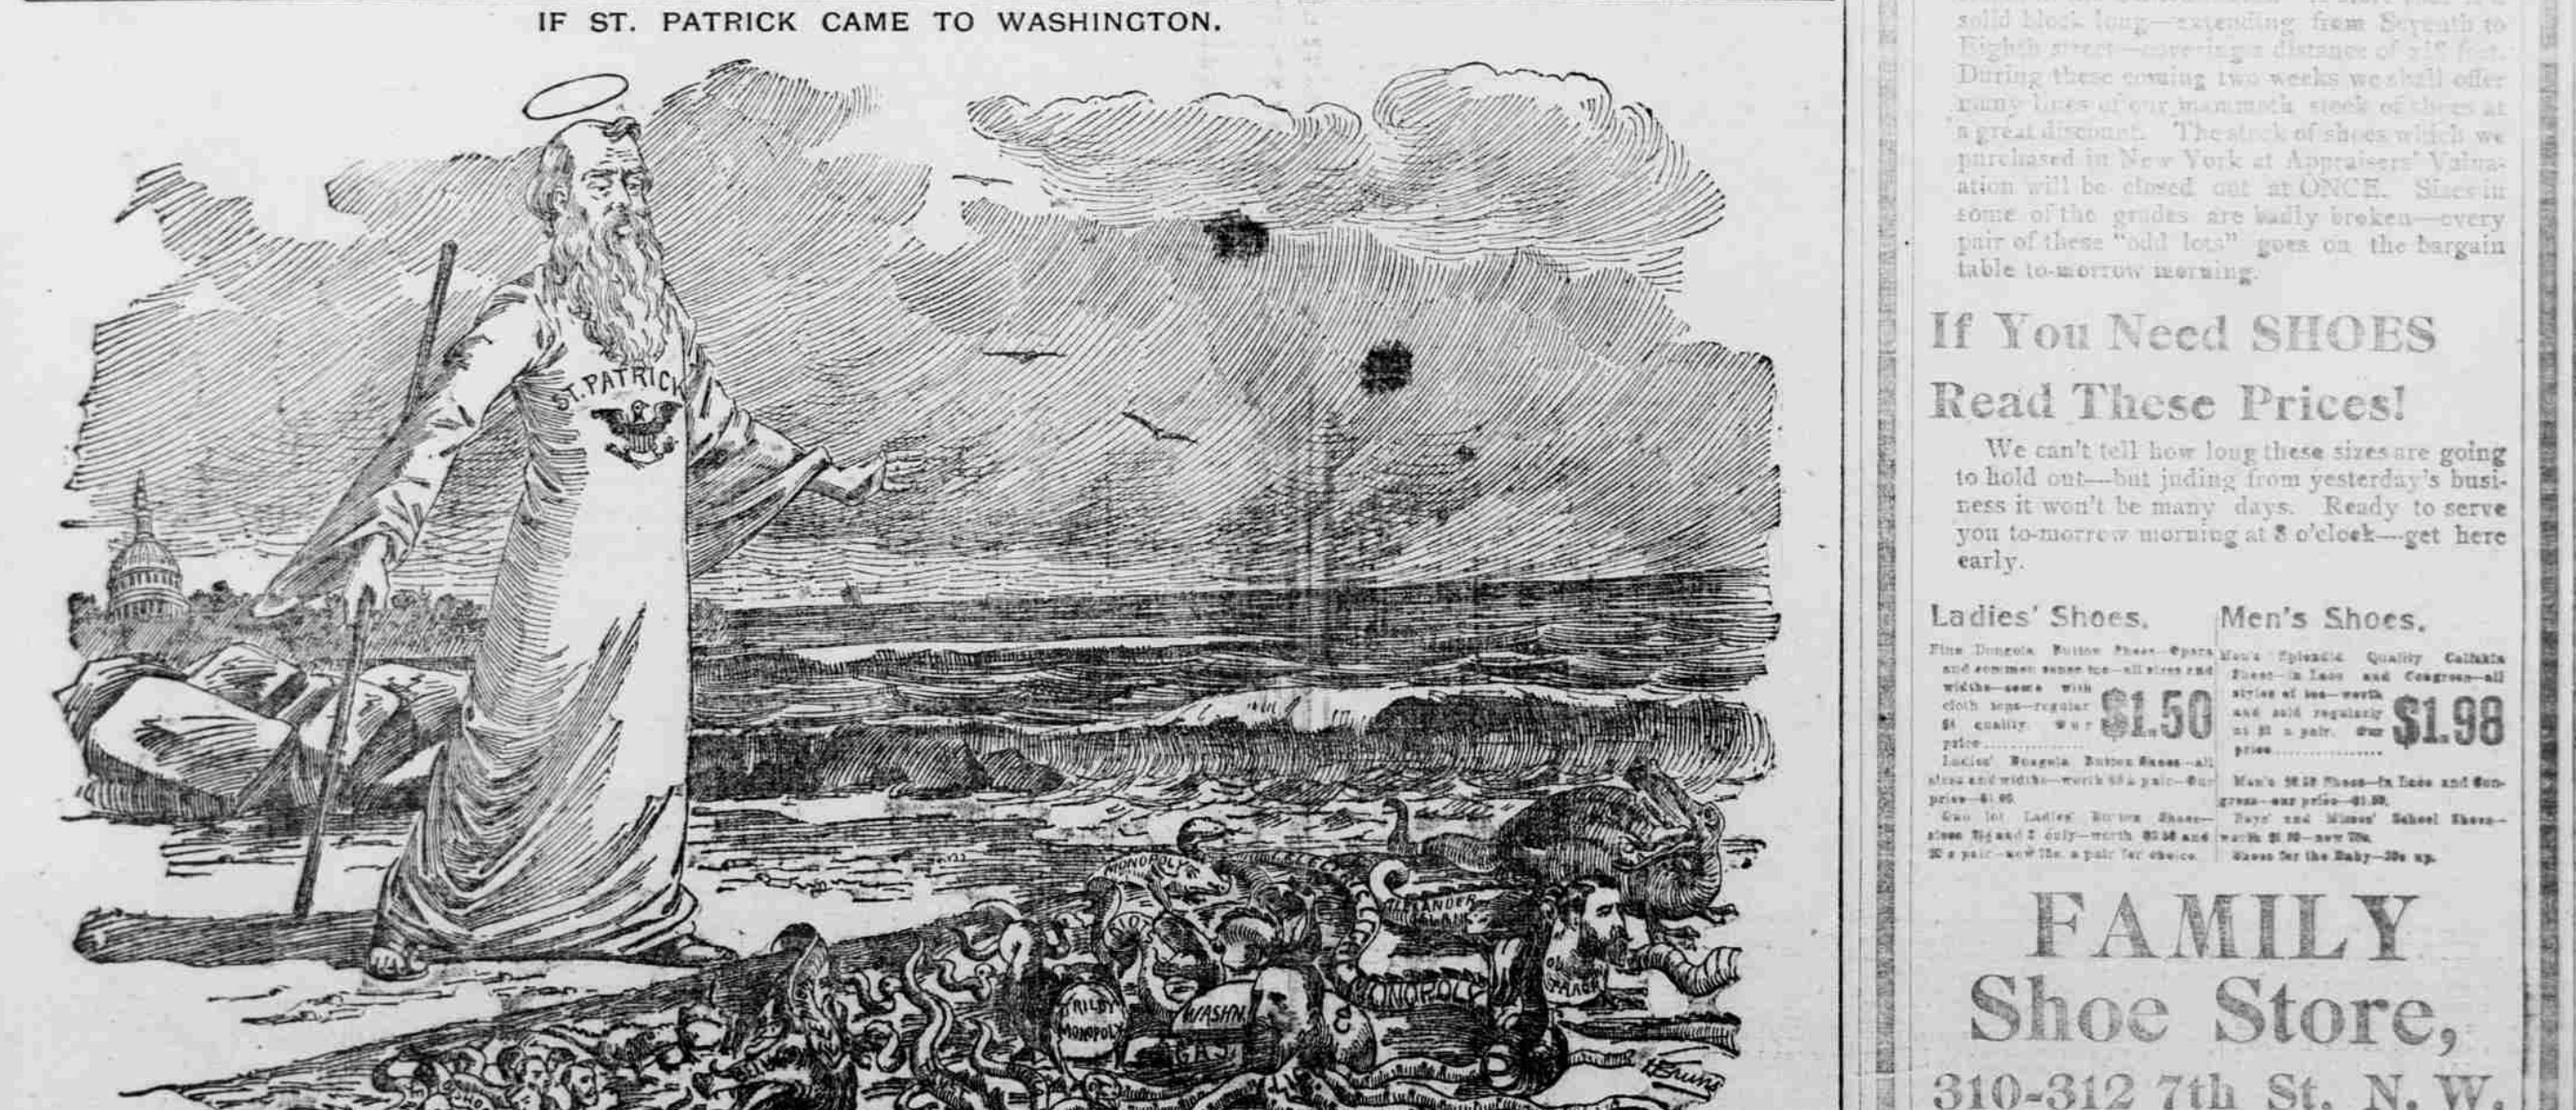

Read These Prices!

We can't tell how long these sizes are going to hold out—but judging from yesterday's business it won't be many days. Ready to serve you to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock—get here early.
